Class History

Senior Class History

By Ernest Rollins

In the fall of 1914 a group of tearful infants pushed out into the cold, hard world and shyly presented themselves before Miss Ella at Kindergarten. That was the first entry of the famous class of 1927 into the realms of knowledge.

Eight years of school life—and industrious work (?)—passed swiftly by. Then on September 4, 1923 a class of arrogant though exceedingly green "Freshies" proudly entered Medina High School where they were placed under the direction of Miss Rice. Praises be to Allah, there was no initiation for the first time in the history of Medina High. For several days we wandered dazedly about, but we finally found our bearings— although no thanks were due the lofty Seniors.

After we were settled we organized our class; the officers elected were: Louise Wideman, president; Helen Clark, vice-president; and Norene Carlton, secretary-treasurer.

As Sophomores we studied hard, but still found time for a few class parties. In this year we went out for athletics and other activities.

Our third year was an extremely busy one. The "Medinian" which we published proved to be one of the best ever put out by M. H. S. (at least we thought so).

At the beginning of our Senior year we elected officers again: Myron Offineer, president; Fanchion Carter, vice-president; Clarence Nettleton, secretary; and Opal Aylard, treasurer.

Our last year has been filled to the brim with various Senior activities, such as: Junior-Senior Banquet, Senior parties, Baccalaureate ,and plans for Commencement. We also put on a class play, "Stop Thief," which proved to be a great success.

Now as June 10 approaches and we are preparing to leave old Medina High for the last time, we wish to express our appreciation to the faculty for all their efforts in our behalf. We hope that each succeeding class will maintain the standard which we have striven to attain.

Class President's Address

"AMERICAN ADVANCEMENT"

By Myron Offineer

In the advancement of America we cannot fail to notice the rapid development of science and the effect it hs had upon the civilization of this great country. Things impossible a quarter century ago are common happenings today. Emigrants from far countries came to America, bringing with them ideas of invention. Here, the learned men needed to lead a great nation took up and developed these ideas and gave to the world the things which we now enjoy and to America the contributions responsible for her tremendous growth. From the knowledge of how to control steam, to generate power, came the steam boat, the steam engine, electricity and in later years the ability to cheaply heat large buildings which it would have cost thousands of dollars to heat otherwise. With the development of science came the call for skilled men to run the various machines, to make improvements, to teach others and to make new inventions.

The advancement in political affairs started at the time of the Revolutionary War, when the colonies proclaimed themselves a free and independent nation. The government started as a weak little council which declared that this or that should be done, but had no way of enforcing the law. There was no army and no navy and, worst of all, no unity. But, finally, out of the dark days of revolution and the trying times following it, came a masterpiece of human minds, the Constitution of the United States of America. It gave laws and a way to enforce them; it produced an army and a navy to defend the country and a system of ruling under which all could be satisfied.

With the better government came a development of commerce and industry and as "Necessity is the mother of invention" the necessity for various things brought out those inventions which revolutionized production.

Great compnies grew from work-benches, the country developed railroads, and means of transportation which brought the people closer together. With the uniting of the people came the spread of population. Men of brave blood moved to the frontier to conquer the unknown in order to make room for the millions to come.

The country grew in size, in popultion, in wealth, and in the estimation of the other countries of the world. The United States began to be recognized as a prosperous, well-doing country, a home for great statesmen, a land of the free and the brave, a country which held a living for everyone who tried.

Finally there came a time when our country was all settled and expansion became the main topic of the day. Alaska, Hawaii, and the Phillippines were added to the colonial possessions of the United States.

Improvements began to be mad, better roads, buildings, towns, and the country in general was improved. Thousands of towns became cities as a result of big factories which were springing up everywhere with new and better equipment.

In 1914 the world war began. First came a call for ammunition, guns, foods, materials of all sorts and, finally, men. Then, it was the United States proved herself the greatest of nations. She came forth with an army and a navy of real substance who fought with the best of armies and against those who had had years of training. At the end of the great struggle we were the richest country, one of the largest, had one of the biggest and best armies and the second biggest navy of the world.

Emigrants from the war depressed zones became enormous. The flocks of people that flowed into America had soon to be checked. The standard quota for each country was set and, when filled for the year, no more were allowed to enter.

Everybody at this time was confronted with a great economic problem, the high cost of living. But at last it seemed the prices reached their highest and then started the downward course. In the meantime, however, many fortunes were made and many were lost, but the country was unquestionably the richest in the world.

Now again the inventor came forward with one of the greatest inventions of the century, the radio. A talk through the air became common. It united countries thousands of miles apart, brought entertainment to the home, promoted commerce and industry and in a thousand ways aided and benefitted civilization.

Thus we stand as citizens of this mighty nation at the dawn of the greatest geographical, governmental, social and diplomatic possibilities the world has ever known. We must, therefore, consider our future carefully. There never has been a time for such opportunities for good; there never has been a time when education without character would have been such a mockery; when there was such need in young people entering upon their careers for integrity, morality an dstrict adherence to lofty ideals. May the spirit of our forefathers, the true spirit of American achievement, guide and direct this generation. May the world ever point to America as the peerless leader in all things that prtain to the true advancement of the nations of the world.

Valedictory

JACK G. OATMAN

Friends and Classmates:—

It is with true regret, yet regret not unmixed with pride, pleasure and expectation that we come here tonight. For our presence here upon this platform comes as an end to our High School activities, our final gesture as High School students.

We cannot but regret to leave behind us, those pleasures, those duties, those pleasant, care-free hours up to now so taken for granted, those invaluable associations, intellectual and social, that make up more than all else, our High School days. Beneath this roof are the scenes of the happiest hours that we shall ever realize. Here we have worked and played. The knowledge that we acquired here is immeasurable. Our learning has come not only from books, but from the priceless assistance of teachers, the numerous extra activities, associations with our fellow students, and contact with life itself as we have found it. Here we have made countless lifelong friends, whose influence upon us it is impossible to estimate. With some of these we may have constant companionship for years to come; some we may see often, others, seldom or never. But, widely separated as we may be, we know that they are all hoping for us to succeed, that we can count on them in any crisis, that they would willingly do their utmost for us, and we for them. These things no one can take from us, they remain as our most precious possession, a force that will shape our lives more than we know. It is not possible to sever all connections with a type of life which we shall never again enjoy, without wishing it otherwise.

But, although it is with genuine regret that we turn our backs on all this, it is also with an appreciable degree of pleasure. This period must come to a close. We are glad to have gone through it, and as we look back over those four years, there are few changes that we would make, had we the power. Some of the best, the happiest, the most care-free days that we shall ever experience are those in which we complete our High School course. We are glad to have completed it, because of the achievement involved and because it opens the way to a new sort of world, where there are other happy days to be lived and enjoyed. With these unforgettable experiences, these joyous incidents, this invaluable knowledge all an inseparable part of our lives, our regrets are not as acute as they might otherwise be. We are glad and proud to be classed as High School graduates, and especially as graduates of Medina High School.

As individuals we are proud of our work, and as a class we are proud of the record of our members. We have had leaders in all branches of athletics, on the diamond, the gridiron, the basketball floor, the gymnasium and the track. Their records stand as symbols of achievement, as heights of endeavor for those who follow them. So also, have we had outstanding leaders in music, social activities, debating, oratory, and scholarship. Our class history, and the history of every individual member of the class reads as a record of achievement and honor, equal to that of any. We feel proud of every member, because of his or her general accomplishments, their honors in special fields of endeavor, or because of their varied talents and achievements as members of Medina High School. There are no failures among them, and there are none but that we are glad and proud to have among us.

Just as there are no failures among us now, so, we are confident, there will be none when these graduates enter the world of affairs. Whatever they take up, the profession, business or politics, they will be, I am sure, influential members of the community in which they live. The more fortunate will go to college, others enter directly into business in its various phases. But no matter what the start, we shall be a success in all conceivable ways, reflecting credit and honor on our friends, our school and our teachers.

So, moved by these varied emotions, we come here on this, our Commencement Night, our last meeting as a class, (and possibly our last meeting with the roll complete) to say farewell to all the associations of Medina High that have meant so much to us during the past four years: and in behalf of our class—the Class of 1927—to bid you, our parents, teachers and friends, a sincere farewell.

Class Prophecy

By Frank Mettie

"If Mr. Mettie is in, I want to see him," said the voice that rose from the palatial office of Edsel Ford and, quick as a flash, the messenger was off to get me.

Not knowing what the interview was to be about, my voice was a little shaky as I said, "Did you care to see me, Mr. Ford?"

"Why, yes," came the reply as he threw two big ledgers in front of me, "Here, look for yourself."

Picking them up I rapidly glanced them over to find that our business had been taking a downward curve for over a year, since the latter part of 1946.

"Can you account for that?" he demanded.

"I believe we have not been doing enough research work outside of our own laboratories," I ventured to reply.

"That is just it, and tomorrow you start on a tour of the world to gain newer ideas and principles of business practice. I will give you three months with all expenses paid, and I will also permit you to go out of your way to look up your old classmates of 1927."

How those few words rang in my ears! It was something that I had always wanted to do and was hoping I could do. How well I could remember when I was just a Freshman looking up to the Senior who was graduating, and realizing that in order to become such a grand person one had to study and study hard. And then when we became Seniors, how proud were our parents and friends and oh how proud we ourselves were. In due time we, too, graduated. Close friendships were broken up, some going to college to spend four more years in preparation, others entering the busy world to make or lose their fortune.

By this time I had collected my thoughts and bidding Mr. Ford goodbye, I bounded through the door to prepare for the tour. It was not long before the noisy streets of Detroit were fading behind me and I was approaching home to tell Mrs. Mettie (nee Fanchion Carter) of the great trip we were to take.

Next morning we hopped over to Cleveland in our plane, parking atop Hotel Cleveland, the largest and most beautiful hotel in the city. Taking an elevator down to the lobby, I walked over to the desk where to my unbounded amazement I met Manager Chase. After a short exchange of past experiences, he said he would call some of the "gang" over for a little party in the evening.

Late in the afternoon I left the hotel for a little stroll. Upon crossing Euclid and East Ninth Street I was almost mowed down by a street car, Motorman Roth at the helm. Onward I walked, looking around for some place where I could get a good, cold drink. Almost before I knew it I was in "Rollins' Cut Rate Drug Store," where I was greeted by Rollins himself. Not far down from here was the "Ellis Bowling and Billiard Gardens," Gerard Ellis, Proprietor. Below was a garage under the management of Harold Rodgers. By this time it was getting late so I started back for the hotel. Passing the Ohio theatre my notice was attracted by the billboard which read, "The Mikers, Under the Leadership of Offineer, assisted by Bowman, Black Bottom Queen."

I reached the Hotel lobby about eight o'clock and, sure enough the "gang" was there to greet me: the most prominent men and women in Cleveland, such as Fisher and McNeal, the electrical experts, Campbell, the country's foremost artist, Councilman Fulton, Fred Baird, president of the Euclid Beach Co, Miss Fretter of the Fretter Horseradish Co, Fulmer and Pelton, the milliners, and Fuller, of the Fuller Baking Co. After a long chat we disbanded, not realizing that we might never meet or see each other again.

But surely I could not go on without visiting Medina. Strolling around there in search of more classmates I happened to drop into a restaurant where, much to my surprise, I found Ruder tossing hamburgs and juggling dishes. He gave me the information that I wanted. He told me that Katherine Root was now president of the Root Company, that Close was living on an experimental farm, trying to grow potatoes on tomato vines, and that Howard Selzer was on a large chicken farm that furnished "friers" to all the hotels and restaurants in Cleveland.

However, most of the famous class of 1927 had left Medina, so I soon started for Philadelphia. You have probably heard of the great firm of "Fenn & Leatherman," which bought out the Wanamaker Store; I paid them a short visit.

But Philadelphia is a poor place for a person on a world tour, so I started off for the "City of Fortune," New York. I arrived at the Yankee Stadium just in time to watch Wade strut his stuff at first base for nine innings. He is making the grade in baseball the same as Dundas in football for the Chicago Elks, and Yost in basketball for the Rosenblums. The sporting world may well be grateful to Medina for these three men.

After the game I went to the "Abrams and Aylard Dining Parlor," where I had possibly the best "feed" since the alumni banquet in '27. It was then just 7:30 and I had to hurry to get over to the Madison Square Gardens to see Ausman box Gibson for the world heavyweight championship title. Of course I could not leave New York without looking into the "Carlton Chain Stores," managed by Norene, Norma and Genevieve. From there I dashed down to the City Hospital to see Marian Bagley, head nurse, and her assistant, Helen Clark.

As I was delayed several hours at New York before I could sail, I decided to go down to Washington. There I had the great pleasure of meeting Rear Admiral Oatman, Secretary of Agriculture Shaw, and his private secretary, Naomi Neumann.

Late that same night I went on board ship, and two days later the stately "Leviathan" pulled into port at South Hampton, England.

It was not long after I landed before I found out that Kraver was a chauffeur for the King of England.

While crossing the Channel to Holland I could see in the distance on the mainland beautiful flowers, bushes and shrubs. Upon inquiring, I found out that these belonged to the internationally known horticulturist, Jay Lash.

This lap of my world tour done, I was soon on the train for Paris. On the way I eagerly looked out of the window at the beauty of the scenery. What a remarkable change since the days of the war!

Paris, indeed, was a gay city, with its wide streets and smart shops. As I was walking down one of the avenues, my eyes fell upon a sign "Miller and Koons Millinery Shop," and right next to it, "Jacot and Kling Beauty Parlor." Could it be that they were from my old home town? I rushed in and beheld the beaming countenance of Dorothy Koons. We had a fine chat.

When I went back to my hotel, I picked up a "New York Times" and was struck by these headlines: "Lois Escott, brilliant Ohio girl elected governor of New York by a large majority." Hurrah for Lois! I always knew her brains would get her some place. Curious enough, in that same paper it told of "Chuck" Nettleton setting the new speed record at Palm Beach, Florida. Evidently our class was becoming famous.

The next stop of my tour was Bombay, India. It was a rainy, dismal day, and I was feeling a bit lonely in this oriental country. But as I stepped off the gangplank, whom should I see but Emma Smith and Grace Taylor. I learned that they were successful saleswomen for the Bromo-Seltzer Manufacturing Company of which Bernice Selzer was the president. At the present time they were making a round-the-world tour for their company. They had just come from South America, where they had spent a week with Dorothy Scott in Buenos Aires. Dorothy owns a very unique Bonnet Shop there. Grace and Emma were also very excited over the news that Neva Caskey had recently been appointed pianist for the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Nine weeks had passed since I left New York. It was time I was getting home, so I boarded a trans-Pacific steamer. And who was that girl in that seal skin coat? She looked mighty familiar. I lost sight of her in the crowd, but I found her again one moonlight night. "I beg your pardon, but—why, Lillian Dethloff!" She was returning to her orange farm in California. She had been studying the oriental way of raising orange trees in India for the past six months. She invited me down to her farm for the week-end and promised to take me over to see LaVerne Thorpe, Andre-Cui's leading mannequin.

On the way back across the country I saw different members of our now widely separated class. In Kansas City I stopped at the McNeal Health Camp. In Chicago I saw Herm Walker, now president of the Crane Plumbing Company. I asked if there were any other members of the class of '27 there and he informed me that Sally Reynolds was an instructress in a private school there.

On reaching home I found Ford very ill. Mary Armstrong, the family physician, said it would be a long time before he would be fit to work again, so I took over the management of the plant until his recovery.

The first thing I did was to fire two stenographers to make a place for Reba Ritter and Louise Wideman, the world's fastest typists.

As I sat in the office the next day, I began musing about my trip and the people I had met or heard about. Only two of my class had I missed. They were Mary Grim and Daisy Hoddinott, and I have learned since that they are selling real estate in Florida.

Class Will

By PHYLLIS MCNEAL

We, the class of 1927, Medina High School, Medina County, Medina, Ohio, being of sound minds and memories and in full possession of our mental faculties, do hereby make our last will and testament.

First, to our faculty, we will the things which we have forgotten. We present them with our sincerest apologies for our past transgressions.

To the Seniors of 1928, we will our great wisdom, superiority and haughtiness. We also will them the joys (?) of the senior home room. We will these numerous riches on one condition, which is that they shall "give their thoughts no tongue," and memorize all of Shakespeare's works.

To the Juniors of 1928, we will the council room—don't tell the prof.—where all of their secret meetings may be held and their conspiracies and plots forwarded.

To the Sophomores of 1928, we deem it necessary to will the useless electric clocks, to be used as targets for spit-balls. They shall also have the privilege of sliding up and down the banisters.

To the Freshmen of 1928, we will the excitement and foreignness of the first few weeks in high school on condition that they be studious and respectful to upper classmen. They must by all means study from 7:30 to 11:30 p. m. at home each night.

We wish to will Ronald Wade's slow motion and about twenty per cent of altitude to Bernardine Weaver, providing she makes good use of both.

Maxine Fulmer's bracelets will go to any under classman who is in need of new piston rings on his Ford.

With our sympathy we bequeath Marion Bagley's eternal and contagious giggle to Edward Yost on condition that he uses it frequently for the enjoyment of his older brother.

Norene Carlton's chewing gum, with all its privileges and obligations attached thereto, will go to Miss Phillips, but Norma selfishly refuses to will her diamond to her.

We bequeath Mary Grim's reserved seat of honor in the "open air can" to anyone who can be persuaded to accept it.

Gerard Ellis wishes to will his good behavior to Carroll McClure, and nine red D's in deportment (one for each month) to Irene Kraver.

"Jap" Dundas and Harold Rodgers bestow their "fiery tops" to be distributed equally among the girls of M. H. S. who are in the habit of using Golden Glint.

We certainly are glad to be relieved of Myron Offineer's pet mustache. This shall go to any student who thinks he can do a better job of it. His ability to jazz the ivories to John Boswell.

Emma Smith wll be glad to will Amos Ruch her vocal talent. May it console him with fond memories.

We will have to will Harold Fisher's size thirteen shoes to the school as a whole, for we have been unable to find any one who could fill the whole available space.

Albert Fenn will give Harvey Carter about six inches of his so-called pompadour to be worn in a curl down the middle of his back.

Marion Yost must give up his perfectly good pair of baseball pants. These will go to anyone who is willing to sew up the rips.

Neva Caskey's collection of boys' silk handkerchiefs is willed to Miss Wright to be used in the kitchen.

Everett Fuller's garrulousness rightly goes to Jerome Abrams.

Opal Aylard's dimple shall be bestowed upon Mr. Taggart.

Bernice Selzer's bold, aggressive manner may be claimed by Jeanne Bowman.

Reginald Campbell wills his pictures for men only to the male faculty members.

We impart to Howard King, Helen Clark's and Daisy Hoddinott's spit curls, along with Mary Armstrong's vanity case, so that the proper attention may be given to the aforesaid hair.

The monkey manœuvers of Day Chase, the missing link, are respectfully transmitted to Mr. Bauer.

Harold Ausman's noble character to Miss Rickard and his gym suit to Miss Allen. He states that this suit should be worn only as a bathing suit.

The pep and vim of Fanchion Carter and Genevieve Carelton we do impart with great pleasure to Ralph Buchanan.

Naomi Neumann's pineapple bob we donate to Ruth Wright.

Donna Pelton yields her joy rides seized during school hours to Marjorie Beck.

Carl Roth wills his ability to speak several different languages on the athletic field to Miss Guthery to be used in her language classes.

The Oatman-Mettie debates we impart to all Miss Phillips' History classes. We are sure she will be tickled to death to have them back.

Howard Selzer wishes to announce that he has no earthly possessions which he cares to dispose of.

Jay Lash's extraordinary ability of getting away with self-written excuses goes to Norman Tubbs.

Clarence Nettleton leaves all his books, including notebooks, textbooks, novels and True Stories and Movie Magazines. We further direct that the said books shall not be looked into with the exception of the novels, True Stories, etc., only when so directed by some stern member of the Faculty.

To some poor Freshman we bequeath Lillian Dethloff's camouflaged raincoat.

We honor John Beck with LaVerne Thorpe's beautiful scarlet comb.

Sherle McNeal has a little advice to give any member of the student body who is considering an ocean voyage, "How to Prevent Seasickness."

Please somebody relieve Dorothy Scott of her precious corn.

Pauline Bowman's ability to "pass out" is granted to any unfortunate one caught in the act of sneaking out.

Katherine Root's ability to play the harp we impart to Wayne Root.

We present the fastidiousness of Herman Walker to Paul Hange.

Grace Taylor's lankiness is graciously bestowed upon "Fat" Nichols. We believe this will enable him to give the other person in his Ford more room.

Sally Reynold's habit of asking no questions we present to "Brother" Kern.

We bestow Lloyd Shaw's beautiful RED sweater to any Freshman who is legally qualified to wear such a contrary color.

Harold ("Chick") Fulton heartily bequeaths to Orland Duke all the superfluous words used in arguing, to be most graciously bestowed on some future "Ag" pupil.

After long enjoying the privilege of sharing Mabel Rickert's locker, Reba Ritter regrets having to will to Mabel the entire use of same.

Emerson Leatherman announces that he still has a small number of his collection of Movie Actresses left. Any underclassman, wishing to carry on the good work, may secure the same.

Bertha Miller's wonderful ability as a student is granted to Tommy Haight.

Ernest Rollin's speed breaking record we grant to Norman Barry.

Robert Close wills his motto, "Always tell 'em what you think," to Thelma Simmerman.

Sophia Jacot's politeness we bestow on Sarah Denton.

Clara Kling's rough and ready basketball disposition we bequeath to Helen Cole.

The noisy step of Martin Ruder is transferred to Mr. Conkle, in order that his victims may hear him approaching.

Mable Fretter bequeaths her business, the same being "Horseradish" to anyone needing a good cry.

Fred Baird presents his general air of importance to Bob Flammer.

Erwin Kraver bequeaths his bravery in the numerous battles at school to Nelson Foskett. May he be able to face any girl's powder.

Lois Escott wills her ability to sling tomato soup and onions across the counter to Ev England.

We will Dorothy Koon's charming red hair ribbon to Paul Borger to hold in place his stray locks without the use of vaseline.

Louise Wideman's blushes we bequeath to Edwin Abbott, as a few extra ones will add to his attractiveness.

Annette Abrams wills her abundant crop of hair to Mr. Gray, along with the booklet entitled "Why Married Men's Locks Turn Gray."

Phyllis McNeal wills Viva Shaw a perfectly good Peter Pan dress. The former has no use for it after being washed—for, oh, what if it shrinks!

All these things must be carefully considered and carried out; in default of this, the entire property of the Senior Class of 1927 will be turned over to the insane asylum.

SENIOR CLASS OF 1927.

Senior Class Poem

(With apologies to Kipling)

When high school's last lesson is learned
And the ink is faded and dried,
When the newest books have grown ancient
And the youngest teachers have died,

We shall rest, and faith, we shall need it,
And we'll have a good time or two
Till Life, in its various phases,
Shall set us to working anew.

And then shall we find that the lessons
We studied have not been in vain.
We shall mount with endless succession
The stepping-stone leading to fame.

From the height of our mountains our thoughts
Shall ever return to these years
That set our feet onward and upward
To victory o'r Life's storms and fears.

Katherine Root.

Class Joker—Donna Pelton

Being one of the biggest jokes in the class I was asked to write this great genius of literature. Signing my name would have been nearly enough, but it was supposed to occupy a little more room than that.

In our class we have a number of graceful people, mentioning no names, and some not so graceful. Marian Bagley expects to get a gold medal for "jumping hurdles?"

Speaking of beautiful names, did you look over the list in the Senior Room? Ask Jack "Gordon" Oatman for further information; he has them all memorized.

As I was crossing the street the other night I saw the cop stop Chick Fulton and Phyllis McNeal. Being quite near I lent my ear to the conversation.

The cop said: "Say there buddy, why don't you use both hands?"

Fulton replied: "I have to use one to drive with."

The next day in music class John Beck asked Bob Close what the "Barber of Seville" was and he said that it was a "close" shave.

Another bright Senior Music Student wrote this on a music test paper: "Bach seldom went out in society, and when he did he never dressed."

While walking through the hall I overhead Miss Phillips ask Gerard Ellis what he intended to do this summer. Ellis said that he was going to be a diamond cutter.

"You don't mean it?" said Miss Phillips.

"Yes, I'm going to see Charlie about getting a job cutting the grass off the baseball grounds."

In chemistry class Mr. Gray asked Carl Roth how iron was first discovered and Carl said that they smelt it.

Miss Guthery in French Class: "Chuck, how much time did you spend on your French?"

Chuck Nettleton: "All night."

M. Guthery: "How's that?"

Chuck: "I put it under my pillow."

Among the many friendships formed in the senior class in time of "peace and war" are Harold Rogers, Fanchion Carter and the Flint Roadster every morning, noon and night.

In the senior class we happened to have two students with the same beautiful name of Marion. They both do not have the same last name now, however, but as accidents will happen they might both be Yost later.

If there is any prospective Freshman who would like to take cello lessons, they would find a real teacher and musician in Day Chase. He entertained the music class the other day until Mr. Conkle strolled in and then Day forgot the rest of the composition he was playing.

It would not be a complete joke without Frank Mettie being mentioned, so I will try and repeat some of his bright remarks.

Jack Oatman in civics class: "Miss Phillips, what kind of cases does the sheriff try?"

Miss Phillips: "Not any as I know of."

Frank Mettie: "Oh, yes he does. He tries suit-cases to see if the guy is a bootlegger or not."

Before ending I wish to express my compliments to Pauline Bowman in her new career as a "Dancer."

There is an old saying that goes something like this:

"He who laughs last never saw the joke."

So if you don't see the joke here just laugh anyway.

Class Song

Tunes A Perfect Day.

Now we come to the end of our High School days;
To the goal for which we have wrought.
Swift have passed the days, and our hearts grow sad
As we think we are soon to part.

Tho' our teachers and schoolmates have said good-bye,
Our mem'ries will linger still
To remind us of joys that we all have shared,
As we climbed education's hill.

Neva Caskey.

A farce in three acts. Scene: the living room of the Carr residence, Providence, Rhode Island.

It is a "big" day at the Carr home. Madge is to be married to James Cluney. Her parents have bought her beautiful wedding gifts and have engaged a special maid for her. The maid, Nell, arrives shortly before the ceremony is to be performed. She sees the gifts and immediately begins to store up a collection of them for herself. When it appears that she might be discovered, she hides the articles on members of the family.

Now Mr. Carr is a very absent-minded gentleman and is considered by his wife to be a kleptomaniac. Of course, because of this infirmity, he is always blamed for everything which comes up missing. But it happens that the maid slips a ring box into Mr. Cluney's pocket, and when it is found on him, Dr. Willoughby, the best man, who, in the course of events, proposes to another of the Carr daughters, Joan, tells James that he too must be a kleptomaniac. Cluney, desperate, telephones police headquarters for a plain clothes man to come and watch him.

The maid has an associate in carrying out the plot to rob the household in the person of Jack Doogan, her fiancee. While he and Nell are collecting things in the living room, the detective from headquarters is heard outside. Doogan hides, but is discovered and so poses as Mr. Cluney. He very cleverly plans a case for the detective and tells him to return later. When he encounters Mr. Cluney and the Carr family he poses as the detective, and as such, gains the knowledge of where all the valuables in the house are kept.

In the meantime some steel stock certificates which Mr. Jamison, a friend of Mr. Carr, has given him as security on a loan, disappear from the safe. Mr. Jamison comes for the certificates and while at the Carr home his money is stolen. He immediately swears out a search warrant and brings the Sergeant of police and two officers back with him. Doogan succeeds in "stalling off" the police by getting hold of the warrant, which he slips into Mr. Carr's pocket.

Mr. Jamison goes after another warrant and, while gone, the real detective returns. He is readily recognized by the police as Joe Thompson, a member of the plain clothes force, and Doogan is proved an impostor. The stolen goods are recovered, the charge against Doogan and the maid is not pressed. Dr. Willoughby obtains Joan's consent to marry him, and the day ends happily in a triple wedding.

Louise Wideman.

Class Motto

By NORENE CARLTON

"Launched, but not anchored." How different the meaning of those two words!

Anchored. The voyage completed, the storms weathered, the dangers overcome, the ship is at rest in the harbor with the mission accomplished upon which it was sent.

But launched! What a contrast there!

For long months, perhaps years, the ship has been in the process of construction. The keel has been laid, the staunch ribs have been placed, the decks are all firmly fixed, every plate has been riveted fast in its place. The pilot house is complete with its marvelous steam steering gear attached to the rudder. Everything is in readiness for the moment when the Master Mechanic will give the word to loose the last brace. Then—the last brace is loosed and the great ship at last goes to meet the element for which she was made. She is launched, ready to sail wherever the "Captain" may direct.

So we, the Seniors of '27, have come through the process of construction. We have carefully laid the foundations upon which we are to build our futures. Everything is in place, and we are about to set out upon the great voyage over the sea of life. May we have builded well so that we will be able to combat and at last overcome the swells and storms which we shall encounter on this great sea.

We are now launched, but we know not yet where we shall anchor.

Class Picture

By MAXINE FULMER

If I were an artist and were told to paint a picture of the class of 1927, I am sure that, judging from the original, my finished work should be a masterpiece. Not being an artist either in oils or in words, I can but attempt to leave a vague impression on your minds of the glowing achievements of these illustrious young ladies and gentlemen.

The class of '27 consists of 33 girls and 28 boys. In this total of 61 students we find great musicians, athletes, orators, farmers, soda-slingers, dressmakers, also pests and jokers.

Our tallest men are Carl Roth, Jr., and Donald Wade, each extending five feet eleven inches into space, while Harold Ausman has the distinction of being the shortest, for he is five feet two inches short. The weight ranges from one hundred and fourteen pounds to one hundred and sixty-five. I will not mention any names as it would not be fair to the rest of the class.

Our tallest girl is Grace Taylor, who possesses five feet nine inches, while our shortest is Mary Armstrong, who is proud of her four feet ten inches. Weights range from Dorothy Scott's to Maxine Fulmer's. All in all we would weigh over three tons and would therefore have to watch out for signs along the highways which say, "Anything over two thousand pounds not allowed."

Of this very distinctive class we have Myron Offineer, director of the popular "Six Flatters" orchestra; Norene Carlton, advanced flutist; Reba Ritter, player of the difficult French Horn; Donna Pelton, expert saxaphonist; Marion Bagley and Neva Caskey, rival pianists; and Katherine Root, harpist. We have also a very prominent producer in the person of Mabel Fretter, whose horseradish is known far and wide.

It is my pleasure to introduce to you a future artist who will be known throughout the world. Although he does not need an introduction to many of the students, it is well that the lower classmen should know more of him. This artist is Reginald Campbell who is famed for his portraits of the members of the Debate Team.

Four of our members were on the Boys' Basketball Team: Marion Yost, Captain, Ronald Wade, Jasper Dundas and Carl Roth, to all of whom we sing praises. Three of our girls were on the Girls' Basketball Team: Fanchion Carter, expert basket maker; Pauline Bowman, captain; and Clara Kling, guard.

We are proud of our fellow-classmen, Jack Oatman, Katherine Root, Louise Wideman and Lillian Dethloff, who participated in the debates. We shall never forget their victories.

The rest of the class of '27 all have their own talents. Some of them are football stars, baseball stars, and track prize-winners.

From the ranks of this class you may expect to meet future presidents, artists, manufacturers, lawyers, doctors, millionaires, prima donnas, members of great symphonies, and many other professions.

May we always live up to the high standards which we now possess. Adieu.

Senior 4B Class Roll

Class History

This is our fourth year in Medina High and we feel elated over the fact that we are now Seniors.

Throughout our career we have contributed our talents to school activities: band, orchestra, chorus, debate, football and track. We have worked very hard, although study has not interfered with our good times. Last December thirty-five of our members braved the treachery of icy pavements to attend our class party. Entertainment consisted of games and dancing, not to mention music (by Miss Allen), and everyone had a good time.

A class business meeting was held at a later date and the following officers were elected: President, Henry Bernhardt; Vice President, Everett England; Secretary, Idabelle Lackey; and Treasurer, Carroll McClure.

Class History

In the fall of 1924, we, as timid freshmen, made our first entry into Medina High School and were placed under the care of Mr. Kellogg in Room 227, and Miss Drew in Room 228. Even in this, our first year, we contributed to band, orchestra, chorus, football, basketball and track. In the inter-class track meet we carried off high honors.

At the beginning of our Sophomore year we were transferred to Room 223 under the supervision of Miss Phillips. We were somewhat fewer in numbers, but what we lacked in that respect we more than made up in pep and spirit. Our officers for this year were: President, Tom Munson; Vice President, Henry Bernhardt; Secretary-Treasurer, Garnett Powers.

As Juniors we have been put in the care of Mr. Gray in Room 221. We have continued to make a good showing in high school activities. In the inter-class basketball tournament we were the victors.

Combining with the 4B's we elected the following as our officers: President, Henry Bernhardt; Vice President, Everett England; Secretary, Idabelle Lackey; Treasurer, Carroll McClure.

Edwin Kelser.

Junior 3B Class Roll

Class History

On January 26, 1925, sixteen of us were escorted to the Freshman room and so started on the path to higher learning.

Now, after two years of hard work, we are Juniors and accordingly very important. The teacher who presides over us at present is Miss Allen.

On November 5, 1926, our class held a very successful Hallowe'en party in the council room of the high school. An exciting time was reported by all present.

Throughout our career we have contributed to sports, music, and other activities, and we hope to continue to do so.

Class History

In the early part of September, 1925, we, fifty-six so-called "Freshies," started in the path of higher learning. At first we were picked on by the "mighty" Seniors whom we duly recognized as our superiors, but, during the latter part of our freshman year, we began to get up a little more spunk which was shown in the remarks flung back at the upper classmen.

Leaving a few by the wayside and picking up a few in their places, our class now consists of forty-five members. Thirty-two are in Miss Phillip's room and the rest are in Miss Allen's. We feel very proud and dignified to think that we are no longer "Freshies." But prouder still will we be when we reach our Junior and Senior years. However, we take part in most of the high school activities even now.

In the first part of our Sophomore year we elected the following as our officers: President, Eugene Schlechty; Vice-President, Katherine Lutsch; Secretary-Treasurer, Jeanne Bowman.

Eugene Schlechty.

Class History

Our class, twenty-eight in number, started its high school course when we were escorted into Mr. Fenn's room by Miss Wheatley. That was the beginning of a great many difficulties, but, happily, we have survived them and are now Sophomores.

We did not have a class party while Freshmen B's but we more than made up for it when we had our roughneck, backwards party the last half of our freshman year. While still 1A's we took part in a musical program given by the Junior High at assembly.

Our officers are: President, Jean Gayer; Vice President, Viva Shaw; Secretary, Letha Ritter; and Treasurer, John Wyman.

Class History

The morning of September 13, 1926 was a great day for a group of fifty small freshmen. On that day we first ventured forth into the unknown shoals of Medina High School.

At our class meeting held soon afterwards we elected the following officers: President, Janet Gibbs; Vice-President, Corwin Hoff; Secretary-Treasurer, Clarence Escott.

We have had only two class parties so far but we intend to make up for that in the future. We have entered into as many activities as are open to "Freshies"; time alone will bring fully to light our talents.

On January 31, 1927, twenty, out of twenty-two pupils were told by Mr. Gibbs to report to Mr. Fenn's room. There we took up the difficulties of being "Freshies."

Soon after we held a class meeting and elected the following as our class officers: President, Brayton Moore; Vice-President, Mary Branch; Secretary-Treasurer, Marcella Aylard.

We have already had one class party, a masquerade; everyone who attended reported a hilarious time. We have not had much chance to take part in high school activities yet, but just wait!

Social Activities

Faculty Thanksgiving Party

On the Tuesday evening preceding Thanksgiving, the teachers of the Garfield and High School Buildings were royally entertained with a Thanksgiving Party, given by the Lincoln Building Faculty.

As soon as the crowd had assembled, opening exercises were held after the fashion of a day at school. These were followed by classs in the three R's and other studies, cleverly arranged games taking the place of recitations. Some students of great promise were discovered.

Following the games, Epicurean instincts held sway as evidenced by everyone's wholesale enjoyment of a delicious turkey supper. A general social hour ensued after which goodnights were reluctantly said.

Senior Party

Thursday night, December 16, was the high time of the year for the Seniors. The senior party was the result of the Lecture Course ticket sellers contest, so the loosing side of which Opal Aylard was captain, furnished the eats and entertainment.

The party began at 8 o'clock with games and stunts by faculty members and students. Each person was given a numbered card and when lunch time came each fellow was to find the girl with the same number as his. All sorts of hats were given out which we wore while we ate. Everyone put away a hearty lunch; John had three helpings of beans and Shorty almost demolished the sandwich pile.

Next came dancing in the gym whch was beautifully decorated with Christmas colors. Mr. Gray gave two piano solos. There was a contest for Charleston dancing in which the prize was given to Helen Clark, and a "crazy dancing contest" in which Dundas and Ausmn carried away high honors.

The party broke up at 11:20. Everyone went away feeling that he had had a fine time.

Clarence Nettleton.

Junior Party

A very delightful class party was held by the juniors on the evening of December 9, 1926. When the guests were all assembled we devided into groups and played various games. Later solo numbers were given by several members of the class.

A gorgeous bouquet consisting of dandelions, wheat, oats and mustard was presented to Miss Allen in appreciation of her efforts on the saxophone.

It did not seem long before we heard someone announce refreshments. We all made great haste to reach the council room where we found others already enjoying themselves. The rest of the evening was spent in dancing.

Idabelle Lackey.

Sophomore Party

One of the most interesting events of the first semester was the Hallowe'en party held by the Sophomore class in the council room on the evening of November 5, 1926. Almost all of the class were present, many appearing in unique costumes. Myron Offineer played several selections which were highly enjoyed by all.

Last, but by no means least, came a most bountiful bunch of "goodies" fitting for the occasion; sandwiches, doughnuts, pickles and sweet (?) cider. Many of the faculty were present at this hour and, one and all, did justice to the eats. Everyone departed at an early hour feeling happy (thanks are respectfully given the sweet (?) cider).

Shirley Goodwin.

Freshman A Party

The Freshman A class held a roughneck-backward party November 9, 1926 at eighth o'clock. Everyone who came was requested to wear old clothes backwards. The girl's locker room door was chosen for entrance and as everyone passed through here their faces were beautifully painted with charcoal. When all had arrived there were twenty-six present. During the evening different games were played.

Refreshments consisted of ice-cream and cake eaten in roughneck backward style—a style which afforded much merriment. Lawrence Abbott had the misfortune to drop one of the cakes up-side down on the floor. It was not wasted, however, for an unsuspecting teacher later ate it. The party came to a close at ten o'clock.

Letha Ritter.

Freshman B Party

The Freshman B's ushered in a new era for Medina High School. Sh—we threw dice—yes, a regular progressive bunco party. There were twelve tables playing. Under the capable direction of Janet Gibbs we soon bgan to "progress," but it seemed almost impossible to dislodge Mr. Taggart and Miss Rickard from the first table. Yes, it takes brains to play bunco.

This eventful evening happened on December 2, 1926. Yes, we are a daring crowd. What, do I hear someone say, will happen when we are Seniors?

Clarence Escott.

Faculty Christmas Party

Faculty Party? That's a deep, dark secret. But we will divulge a few main facts for the general knowledge of the public. First, our guests were the teachers in the other two buildings, the school board members and their wives. Secondly, our food consisted of such a chicken dinner as only Miss Wright and her assistants know how to cook. Thirdly, our entertainment—well, of course, we can't tell everything, but confidentially, Keith himself never saw such vaudeville as was given that night in the auditorium. After the show, our guests went to the—no, not the gym, but the gym transformed into a modern drawing-room, with davenports, comfortable chairs, lamps, a Christmas tree, and even a fireplace. Games and dancing were indulged in. Santa brought us all presents. The party broke up at—well, that's a secret, too.

Freshman A's Party

The Freshman A's held their class party Thursday evening April 14, 1927. With Mr. Fenn and Miss Richard present as chaperons. The decorations were rose and white, class colors. The first part of the evening was spent in playing games, of which Three Deep and Ruth and Jacob were the favorites. Refreshments of ice cream and wafers were served. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, with music furnished by Mr. Eugene Woodruff's dance orchestra.

Ruth Ewing.

Freshman B Class Party

The 1B class had their first class party April 8, 1927. It was a masquerade party held in the council room of the Medina High School.

We were fortunate in obtaining a seven piece orchestra for part of our entertainment. When everybody had assembled the evening program was started by supplying each person with paper and pencil and requesting them to test their knowledge by attempting different questions which were placed about the room. After the prizes had been bestowed upon the winners a livelier game was proposed: "Three Deep." Mr. Fenn recomends this exercise for reducing; he claimes he lost 5 pounds that very evening. During this game the orchestra played many popular selections. Afterwards there was dancing.

Refreshments were served about nine thirty. Soon after papers were given to each guest, requesting him to perform some stunt. The result was amusing, to say the least. Our president, Brayton Moore; entertained us with a puzzling "mind-reading" stunt. Then, after one more game, we found that it was time to bid our friends fare well.

Cecile Shook.

April Fool's Jaunt

On the first of April in twenty-seven
  There were teachers—about forty-eleven—
Left the Garfield Building for regions unknown,
  Those who took others were not alone.

After riding about the town for a while,
  Our faces showed frowns, but never a smile,
But finally we reached Hotel Moore,
  Where we ate fish with trimmings galore.

Paper bibs decked out in a most clever way,
  Served to remind of a younger day
Cakes turned out to be golden bread—
  April Fool and that's enough said.

Having taken a lesson in sleight of hand,
  We felt as if we could rule the land.
So after all this to learn and to eat,
  Music and games made our fun complete.

Junior Senior Banquet

One of the most delightful events of the school year was the Junior Senior Banquet, given by the Juniors on June 6, 1927 in the Council-room. The Juniors entertained the Faculty and Senior class members.

For this gala occasion the council-room was beautifully decorated in blue and gold, the colors of the senior class.

It was a gorgeous sight to see these dignified seniors march in, the girls in the latest modes from Paris, the boys in their new suits.

An address of welcome by the Junior Class President, Henry Bernhardt was responded to by Jack Oatman in his modest way. Following this outburst of oratory all got busy.

After much eating Mr. Gray the toastmaster, made some very clever remarks. He then called upon some of the faculty, juniors and seniors to demonstrate their oratorial abilites, which they did doing much talking and no thinkng. Many jokes were "cracked" and some just stood up.

The rest of the time was spent in dancing and playing games. The evening passed all too quickly. When it was time to leave, everyone went away feeling that the last gathering of the two classes had been a big success.

Onnolee Lutz.

High School Picnic

When Mr. Conkle told us that we were going to have a High School Picnic on June 3, at Chippewa Lake everyone was in favor of it.

Some of the students took part in the games of the afternoon, while others came for the evening only.

When 5:30 came everyone went to the dining-hall where our supper was held. The supper was just fine thanks to Miss Phillips, Freshies, and Sophomores.

The Medina High School Debate Club held its first meeting on Wednesday, September 15, 1926.

The officers elected for the first semester were: President, Ellen Nichols; Vice-President, Donald Snyder; Secretary, Katherine Root. It was decided that the club should meet once every two weeks. These meetings consisted of debates on public questions such as: "War Debt Cancellation," "Evils of the Present Immigration Laws" and "Equal Compensaton for Equal Labor for Men and Women." After each debate Mr. Bauer gave constructive criticism on improving our arguments and delivery.

Early in November Mr. Bauer informed us that the question for the triangular debate with Barberton and Wadsworth would be: "Resolved, That the Phillippines should be Granted Complete Independence by 1930."

The tryout for the teams came in December. The following club members debated: Letha Ritter, Frederick Grim, Raymond Kendall; Robert Flammer, Donald Snyder, Jack Oatman, Charles Smith, Stanbery Nichols, Ellen Nichols, Lillian Dethloff, Louise Wideman, and Katherine Root.

Officers for the second semester were elected as follows: President, Jack Oatman; Vice-President, Ellen Nichols; Secretary, Louise Wideman. The rest of the meetings were spent in discussing the Philippine question.

The negative team as chosen for the debate consisted of: Jack Oatman (Captain), Katherine Root, Louise Wideman, and Charles Smith.

The affirmative team was composed of: Donald Snyder (Captain), Ellen Nichols, Stanbery Nichols, and Lillian Dethloff.

On March 11 the affirmative team went to Wadsworth. The debate was very close, but Professor Utterback of Oberlin gave the decision to Medina.

Stanbery Nichols, as first speaker, showed that independence in the near future would prove advantageous to both the United States and the Philippines. Donald Snyder presented evidence to prove that the Filipinos are able socially and economically to govern themselves. Ellen Nichols closed the constructive argument of the affirmative by proving that the Filipinos have established and are maintaining a stable government. In rebuttal Lillian Dethloff spoke instead of Stanbery Nichols, her speech receiving the special comment of the judge.

At the same time Medina's negative team was debating Barberton's affirmative team at Medina.

Katherine Root began the argument for Medina by proving that the work of the United States in the Philippines remained unfinished. Katherine was very effective in her constructive speech, and she gave a rebuttal which was very disheartening to Barberton. Louise Wideman continued the case by showing that the Filipinos are not economically able to govern themselves. Jack Oatman ended the constructive case with the fact that the Filipinos do not have a stable government.

Dr. Lean of Wooster College spoke briefly after the debate and gave the decision to Medina.

On March 23, Medina's negative team debated Cleveland Extension School at Central High in Cleveland on the same question. The three judges gave the decision unanimously to Medina. In this debate Louise Wideman especially distinguished herself by the forceful manner in which she delivered her speeches.

On the next evening, March 24, the Extension School's negative met the Medina affirmative at Medina. The debate was one-sided in favor of Medina. After Ellen Nichols had spoken in rebuttal there was absolutely nothing left of the negative case. The three judges voted unanimously for Medina.

This debate completed the most successful year, forensically, that Medina has ever enjoyed, last year tying for honors and the year before winning the triangle debate only by securing the majority of votes.

Oratory

On March 25, Robert Flammer was sent as a contestant from Medina High School to the Northern Ohio Oratorical Contest held at Oberlin College. He gave an original speech on, "What are the Characteristics of Good Literature?." Nine schools were represented, Medina securing third place. Robert's speech was well prepared and ably presentd, reflcting much credit upon his school.

Monday evening, March 21, the debate teams partook of a splendid chicken dinner at the home of Lillian Dethloff on the South Pike. Much "fowl" was devoured and a "great" time was had by all.

And again on Friday evening, April 29, the entire squad and their coaches, Miss Houston, Mr. Gray and Mr. Bauer, drove to Cleveland and enjoyed themselves to the extent of a cafeteria supper and Keith's Palace.

Stanbery Nichols.

Music Notes

By Wayne Kendall

The musical activities of Medina High School this year have been confined to the work of the orchestra, the band and the choruses.

On November 23 the orchestra gave their annual assembly program. It was as follows: "West Point Cadet March;" overture, "Feast of the Lanterns;" march, "Here They Come;" "March of the Peasants;" horn solo, Reba Ritter; "Invitation to the Dance."

A new feature was the eighth and ninth grade chorus numbering over a hundred. Their first appearance was at assembly on Friday, December 10, when the following program was presented: "Love's Old Sweet Song;" "Juanita;" "Green and White;" "Castles in the Air;" "Winter Carnival;" "Three Wise Kings;" flute solo, "Heather Rose"—Viva Shaw; piano solo, "Sextette"—Aunda McCool; soprano solo, "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise"—Mary Pelton. The chorus was assisted by an instrumental quartette: violin, Jeanette Waite; flute, Viva Shaw; cello, Jean Gayer; and piano, Neva Caskey ('27). At this program Mr. Beck played two piano selections by request, one being a transcription of his own on the hymn "In the Sweet Bye and Bye."

The band gave an assembly program on January 14. A novelty number was a piano solo, "Lonesome and Sorry," by Myron Offineer with the band.

A group of our high school orchestra furnished the music at the luncheon of the Medina Kiwanis Club on January 27. Howard King, tenor, sang two solos: "Absent" and "Oh Fair, Oh Sweet and Holy."

Music was furnished by the orchestra for the debates and the band played at football and basketball games. Myron Offineer ('27) acted as leader several times in the absence of Mr. Beck.

The High School Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Beck, with Neva Caskey at the piano, gave an assembly program on Friday, March 25. The following songs were sung: "A Warrior Bold," "Cornish Dance," "Out on the Deep," "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "Song of the Arab," "Now the Day is Over," and "Hear Our Prayer."

On Friday, April 1, the Senior Girls' Orchestra made its initial perfomance. The instrumentation of this group is rather unusual for a single class, including three violins, a cello, a viola, a clarinet, a flute, a saxophone, a horn, a piano and drums.

The outstanding musical event of the year was the May Festival on the fifth of that month, when choruses from the primary, grammar and eighth and ninth grades and high school participated. The grade and high school orchestras also performed. In all, there were about eight hundred pupils who took part.

The New Organ

On Friday evening, May 13, at 8:00 Albert Riemenschneider of Cleveland, famed organist and director of the Conservatory at Baldwin Wallace, gave the inaugural recital on the new organ of the High School.

This organ was made possible through gifts from the High School Alumni, proceeds from entertainments put on by the school, community and individual pledges, etc. The Medina Community Organization made the final drive for funds under the direction of Harry Lincoln, chairman of a special organ committee consisting of Florence Sipher, Etta Musser Bigelow, Dwght Shepherd, and John Kemp. The funds were ably handled by Harry Aylard.

The organ itself is a product of the Austin Company of Hartford, Connecticut. This same company made organs for the Cleveland's Masonic Temple, Cincinnati's Music Hall, Sesquesentennial organ, and many others. Mr. Riemenschneider designed the organ.

The organ was installed by Charles W. Sheuring of Cleveland who has charge of all Austin organs in this territory besides being the official tuner and repairer of Cleveland's big organ in the City Auditorium. The official representative for the Austin in this territory is Rollo Purrington of Pittsburgh.

Medina High School's organ is of the latest type, a special unified organ, it has three manuals or keyboards, 50 stops, and over 40 combination pistons. The console is over 75 feet from the organ proper and has an extra cable so that it can be moved to any part of the stage.

There are over 600 pipes, the longest is 16 feet and the shortest is 2 inches. It has so been erected as to have extra pipes for clarinet, oboe, harp, chimes, etc.

It was made especially for school and community work, teaching, and for use with orchestra.

The Alumni and friends made several gifts to former and present teachers which were greatly appreciated by the committee.

Mr. Riemenschneider at the inaugural recital was ably assisted by Etta Musser Bigelow, soprano; Fred Bohley, baritone; Harry Lincoln, cello; Florence Sipher, violin; Mrs. Harold Zeigler and Mrs. Fred Bohley, piano.

Vocational Agricultural Class

The aim of vocational agriculture is to arouse within the boy of high school age an interest in agriculture and to aid him in acquiring those characteristics which make for good citizenship in his community. One agricultural subject is offered each year, with the exception of the second year when farm shop is offered. The following shows the prescribed curriculm which may be taken.

Freshman—Animal Husbandry, Algebra, Biology, English.
Sophomore—Farm Crops, Farm Shop, Geometry, English.
Junior—Farm Management, Chemistry, Economics, English.
Senior—Farm Engineering, Physics, Am. History 1/2, Civics 1/2.

All the boys have home projects. Each boy raises some crop or live stock or manages some phase of the farm business. In this way we can apply in practice what we learn in school. We are taught to do some five hundred and thirty farm jobs.

The department aids the community in many ways by testing seed corn, soils, milk, culling poultry and spraying fruit trees. The sprayer constructed by the Engineering class has sprayed over fourteen thousand gallons of spray so far. Ralph Eaken and Ralph Armbruster have completed records on one hundred ten cows in a cow testing circle. This qualifies them for official testing. The department has a class orchard of fifty acres of fruit trees which they manage for experimental purposes.

Mr. Duke took 20 of us to the Ohio State Fair last September. A judging team of several boys competed with several other departments in a contest. Lloyd Gilbert won a prize in the live stock judging. Henry Mabry and Howard Dailey won "State Scholarship" to the O. S. U. by competive examination. Henry Mabry also was honored by receiving second prize of eighty dollars in the Ohio-Penn., Joint Stock Land Bank Farm Accounts Contest.

The Flivver Sprayer

Home Economics

By Irene Kraver

There are seventy-six girls in the Home Economics classes this year—34 in the advance sewing class, 19 in the beginning class, and 23 in the Cooking classes.

In the beginning Sewing class, a study of fibers has been made. Samples of staple materials were collected, and the girls learned to judge and test materials before buying. In the spring they held what Mr. Conkle called a Pink Tea and exhibited the work of both Sewing classes. A display was also placed in Gensemer's window. In addition to work in all kind of materials, the advanced class has studied problems of cost, durability, style, color, suitability and use.

One of the important projects of the Cooking class was meal-serving. In December the Kiwanis Club was served by these girls and afterwards made a tour of the building. The girls also served the dinner for the Ohio State Day celebration. The following week cafeteria opened. Its patrons were served by Thelma Simmerman, Bernice Selzer, Lucille Gordon and Irene Kraver. After the cafeteria closed the girls continued to serve the teachers who were in charge of the building at noon each day. During the winter the class served banquets for the Boys' Football and the Girls' Basket Ball Teams. Just before Christmas they prepared a four-course meal for the teachers of the Primary, Garfield and High School Buildings and members of the School Board and their wives. The cooking class sponsored a cake-making demonstration by a representative of the Swans Down Company, which all the High School girls attended. In May, as the girls had finished their lessons in practice Cookery, they served several luncheons, to one of which they invited their mothers as guests.

All the girls feel they have been greatly benefited by these courses, with Miss Wright as their capable instructor.

Scholarship Honors

A question often asked is, what do high school students do in school besides engage in extra-curricular activities? To answer this question is the purpose of this short article.

There is a total of 1200 subjects enrolled for by the entire student body. Of this number only 40 subjects or three percent received a failing grade last semester, fifteen percent made the Honor Roll and thirty prcent the Merit Roll. A word of explanation will reveal that to meet these requirements is no easy task. The Honor Roll includes the names of pupils who have a semester average of ninety percent or above in four major subjects and no average below eighty percent in any subject. Any pupil whose character or conduct reflects discredit on the school is not eligible. The standard for the Merit Roll is a semester average of at least eighty-two percent in four major subjects and no failing average in any subject.

It therefore goes to show that with nearly one-half the student body on the Honor Roll or Merit Roll Medina High School is at least fair in scholarship.

GAMES

KENT ROOSEVELT

After holding the Medina Alumni to a scoreless tie, M. H. S. went to a disastrous defeat at Kent Roosevelt to the tune of 26—7. Medina's line was equal to Kent's, but they were not strong enough to hold Kent's back field. Close made the touchdown for Medina.

However, due to an ineligible player and the good sportsmanship of Kent High, the game was forfeited to Medina which gave a score of 1—0 in favor of our school.

SOUTH AMHERST

With much better success and redeeming themselves for the past game our boys defeated South Amherst 38—19. The game was started with great vim and vigor; Dundas received the kickoff and, dodging and side-stepping, sped down the field about seventy yards for a touchdown. This put a great deal of pep in our boys and they kept it up throughout the game.

ST. VINCENTS

Soon afterward our eleven went to Akron to meet the strong St. Vincents' eleven. The game proved to be a defeat for our boys, probably due to the crippled line-up which we had; Hange, our center was out on account of injuries. Although the game was played on a field that looked like a miniature lake and they again went down

MILLERSBURG

After losing the preceding week at St. Vincents, the boys toured to Millersburg, but with an even weaker line-up than that which battled with St. Vincents. The game was played on a field that looked like a minature lake and they again went down to defeat of 24—0.

WADSWORTH

This was the big game of the season. The weather and field conditions were ideal, and after a week of hard practice and reorganization, Wadsworth was trounced by a score of 23—7.

The boys played excellently showing improvement over the past two games. They certainly gave Wadsworth a taste of the old Medina fight. The only time our opponents threatened to score was in the third quarter which resulted in a touchdown for them. Our boys felt well rewarded for winning this game.

WELLINGTON

On a field which was not fit for hogs to roll in, Medina was forced to a 0—0 tie. The boys played hard, but wading in mud over their shoes kept them from making much progress. Whenever they did get started they were soon stopped by fumbling and by failing to recover the pigskin.

KENMORE

This was probably the hardest fought battle of the season, but with the breaks of the game going to Kenmore right from the start, our boys were defeated by a score of 14—7. It looked for a while as though it might be a tie, but due to a forward pass in the closing minutes of the game, Kenmore left the field victorious. Both Kenmore's line and back field out weighed Medina's, but nevertheless our boys put up a good hard fight.

BEREA

Medina added another victory to their list when they battled with Berea. The field was full of duck ponds covered with thin ice which made it hard to play. But the game resulted in a 2—0 victory. In spit of the mud and ice our boys played well, preventing their opponents from scoring at all.

NORTH RIDGEVILLE

The last game of the season was played with North Ridgeville, Class B champions of Lorain County. Of course the field was muddy again. All through the first half it looked bad for Medina, but in the second our boys came back at Ridgeville with the old Medina fight and secured a touchdown.

Medina fought hard until the last minutes of the game, but then they laid down on the job—with Ridgeville in possession of the ball. It was then that our opponents became very threatening, but they were prevented from scoring by the crack of the gun which ended the game. The final result was 6—0 in favor of Medina.

The Ridgeville team came to Medina with a clean slate, not having lost a game and having had only two points scored against them, but they went home with a changed record.

ALUMNI

The first game the boys played was with the Alumni which resulted in a score of 0—0. Although both teams lacked practice and there were a few green men on the high school squad, it was a well played game. The object of the game was not to see which team was the better, but to see what positions the different players on both teams were to play during the season.

HANGE—Center

Weight 160 Class 1928

Hange made his presence felt as an expert center in all but a few of the games this season. However, he was laid up with injuries for a short time when he was replaced by Bernhardt. Hange passes the ball in a spiral style which is very effective in fast plays. He is an unusually hard line hitter and he helped many a line play through to a touchdown. We are very glad he is going to be with us again next year.

WHITE—Tackle

Weight 140 Class 1928

White, playing his first year of varsity football, proved to be a big cog in the works of the team. Although small in stature, he had the grit and the fight which proved disastrous to many of his opponents. White's hobby was breaking interference and clearing a path for the backfield.

AUSMAN—Halfback

Weight 134 Class 1927

"Shorty," which in itself is a good description, was exceedingly good at receiving forward passes and was as plucky a man as the team had. But his pluckiness was overtried when he was laid out in doing his best to stop the full back of Kent Roosevelt, who was twice his size. Shorty was not a letter man last year because of injuries which put him out for the entire season, but he certainly starred this year. We are very sorry he is leaving as he has contributed largely to the athletic activities of the high school.

KING—End

Weight 157 Class 1928

King, as an end for M. H. S., made it possible many times for the Green and White to secure big gains. Howard was a varsity man last year. He provided splendid interference for the backfield, and his speed and sureness saved many points for the team. Football fans of Medina look forward to seeing him play again next year.

ROTH—Tackle

Weight 176 Class 1927

Carl played this, his second year of football, with much better success than last. He is a good tackle, combining excellent speed with sound understanding of the game. This is a combination which is a great help on defensive plays and which has brought down many a man on the gridiron. Although he did not star in any special game he did very well in all.

WALKER—Guard

Weight 155 Class 1928

Walker, along with his fellow guard, Bernhardt, had the unusual record of not missing a minute of play. That record in itself shows his quality. Walker was very dependable. When a play is called in his section it is generally made good.

CAPTAIN WADE—Quarter

Weight 145 Class 1927

Captain Wade, a varsity player for the past two years, has developed into one of the best forward passers that M. H. S. has ever put out. Honky's cool judgment and ability to work plays in tight places has helped to win many a game. This is Wade's last year in school and he certainly will be missed next year.

DUNDAS—Fullback

Weight 147 Class 1927

"Jap" was one of the big reasons for the success of the team this year. Dundas is a fair line plunger, a punter deluxe, and an excellent end runner. He brought the crowds to their feet many times when he made dashes around an end or line plunges. His great asset was his speed which he could use to greatest advantage in such plays. His big game was with S. Amherst when he got the ball on the kick-off and made a spectacular run for a touchdown.

CAPTAIN-ELECT BARRY—Halfback

Weight 150 Class 1928

"Norm" has wonderful football ability and he has been starring for M. H. S. for two years. His tactics, side-stepping and a well managed stiff arm, are used to great advantage in end runs and in receiving forward passes at which he is excellent. "Norm" scored many of the points in the Wadsworth game. He has been rewarded for his service to the team by being elected captain for 1928. We wish him success next year.

BERNHARDT—Guard

Weight 175 Class 1928

"Baker," one of the best guards M. H. S. has produced in recent years, surely had the "old fight." He had the enviable record of not missing a minute of play the whole season. He has an attack which is never equaled by his opponent. "Baker" is built in regular steam roller style; we don't doubt but that the fellow he hit in the St. Vincents' game would also testify to this.

CLOSE—End

Weight 150 Class 1927

This year was Bob's first year as a varsity man. One fine example of his originality as a football player was in the Wadsworth game. He stopped the hard smashing Hutchinson in his tracks. We will remember him for his good work. He will be greatly missed in the team of 1927.

The Struthers game, in which we were defeated was at the Akron Tournament.

Basketball 1926–27

CAPTAIN YOST—Forward—Class of 1927.

At the start of the season Marion was elected captain. Yost is very fast and he is good at taking the tip-off from Wade. Yost was an exceptionally good shot, being one of the high-point men of the local squad. This was his last year and his shoes will be hard to fill next season.

—o—

WADE—Center—Class of 1927.

"Honky" is one of the best shots on the team and is very dependable. He is very good at getting the tip-off from the opposing center. This is Wade's last year of basketball and his loss will be keenly felt. He is a good passer and dribbler—in all ways a good floor man.

—o—

DUNDAS—Forward—Class of 1927.

"Jap" has played his last year of basketball and he certainly did a good job of it, especially at the tournament at Oberlin, scoring 12 points in each game. He was high point man of the local squad and he wll be much missed on the team another year.

—o—

ROTH—Guard—Class of 1927.

Carl played his first year of varsity basketball and was a good defensive player. He never made very many baskets because he didn't have a chance to do so. His long shots at Wadsworth and Rittman will long be remembered, those at Rittman saving the game for M. H. S. He was good at taking the ball off the backboards.

—o—

LANCE—Forward—Class of 1928.

Lance is very fast and a fairly good shot. With one year left he should develop into a very good player.

—o—

CARTER—Guard—Class of 1928.

Harvey is our star guard having worn the M. H. S. suit for three years. He is about the best guard M. H. S. has ever had. He is very fast and a good dribbler. He has dribbled through an entire team to make a basket. Carter has one more year of basketball.

Baseball 1927

May 20 Ashland—At Home—Medina 6, Ashland 7.
May 26 Barberton—At Home.

JASPER DUNDAS—Class of 1927.

"Jap," the popular red head, was elected captain of the team at the start of the season, a very fitting climax for one who has won the green and white uniform in four different sports. Captain Dundas held down the initial sack very creditably, as well as being one of the heaviest hitters of the team.

MARION YOST—Class of 1927.

"Yost," the home run king of the Medina High School team, whose home run that did not count in the Ashland game, also his mighty drive that almost broke up the game at Wadsworth, will long be remembered. Yost was a good catcher and stopped many runners who tried to steal either second or home.

RONALD WADE—Class of 1927.

"Honky," our elongated shortstop, who was good at stopping the hot ones. Wade usually managed to get on base at each trip to the plate. Another one of our shortstop's accomplishments, which he very modestly admits, was that he could get into his uniform in three minutes.

HAROLD AUSMAN—Class of 1927.

"Shorty," as our talkative second baseman was better known, was a very clever base runner. Though handicapped with an injured hand early in the season he managed to hit safely in four trips to the plate in the Wadsworth game. Ausman's talk did much to liven up the team's play.

ROBERT CLOSE—Class of 1927.

"Bob" started the season by playing in left field, and being shifted to third in some games he performed well in either capacity. This is the last year that Close will wear the Medina High School uniform, and we are sorry to see him leave.

JULIAN BIGELOW—Class of 1928.

"Bigelow" was one of the best fielders of the Medina High team, robbing many a batter of a hit by some neat catching. Although not a heavy hitter he managed to maintain a very good batting average for the year.

NORMAN BARRY—Class of 1928.

"Norm" started the first game of the season in a snowstorm at Ashland, and in spite of the cold weather, managed to whiff seven men in six innings. Barry was also a good fielder and a brainy baseball player. He has one more year to pitch for the green and white.

HARVEY SHOOK—Class of 1929.

"Shook" was the left-handed guardian of the right field garden. Harvey was a good fielder. He has two more years to wear the green and white, for which we are glad.

EARL SCHAMP—Class of 1930.

"Bus," the Freshman pitcher, who also held down third base when he wasn't busy fanning batters. Schamp has three more years to play with Medina High School, and should develop into an excellent player during this time.

ESCOTT—Discus, pole vault, broad jump.

Track 1927

Medina's first meet was to have been a triangular one with Ashland and Mansfield, but this meet was canceled at the last minute because of unfavorable weather conditions in Ashland.

The first competition for our track team was found in the county meet when the Medina thin-clads took part. Although not being allowed to place, the meet furnished excellent practice.

The next competition for our boys is the Northeastern district meet which is to be held at Lakewood, May 21. If Medina places some men in this meet we will go to the state meet the following Saturday, May 27. This completes our 1927 schedule. There is much fine talent in Medina High School and we hope to have a more attractive schedule next year.

BASKETBALL SQUAD

First Team.

Helen Ribbeck, rf.
Pauline Smith, lf.
Fanchion Carter, c.
Clara Kling, rg.
Pauline Bowman (Captain), lg.

Second Team.

Marian Bagley, rf.
Genevieve Carlton, lf.
Norene Carlton, c.
Donna Pelton, rg.
Helen Cole, lg. or lf.
Emma Smith, lg.
Rosemond Green, rf.

"CAPTAIN" BOWMAN—Left Guard.

Class of 1927.

"Captain" Bowman proved a good leader as well as an excellent guard. Pauline played equally well in every game, although when we journeyed to Millersburg, our opponents succeeded in putting her out by injuring her. Bowman was a "nifty" passer and a fast player on the floor. When she decided not to let the enemy score she could not be stopped.

Class of 1927.

Clara was given the title of "quarterback" on this year's team and she certainly proved herself such. Kling played her position of guard excellently. She used the Canadian Mounted Police motto: "Get your man," proof that she was always "on her toes." We surely regret that this is Clara's last year in high school.

COLE—Forward or Guard.

Class of 1928.

"Tiny," our diminutive star, proved her worth and her willingness to fight for Medina High School in the Rittman game. She played side center very well, constantly keeping her opponent on the alert. We are expecting much from Helen next year.

CARTER—Center.

Class of 1927.

Carter, Medina High School's "flyer," played center on the team this year. Fanchion was an all-around player and was very successful in finding the basket on all occasions. She was an excellent dribbler and could fairly "fly" down the floor past her opponent. She was also good on long and short shots. Carter particularly excelled in the Lodi game.

Class of 1928.

Ribbeck came to Medina High School as a new student this semester and captured a place on the first team as forward. Helen was very quick and was fine at long shots. She played exceptionally well in the Wadsworth home game. We are expecting more good work from Helen in the coming basketball season.

G. CARLTON—Left Forward.

Class of 1927.

Genevieve played her best game against our old rivals, Wadsworth, making most of the points. Carlton was a fast player and passed well, never failing to "be on the dot" in receiving passes. Although not a regular on this year's team, she had the "fight" when she was put into a game.

PELTON—Right Guard.

Class of 1927.

"Dan" was a guard worthy of mention, because she had that good old fight for Medina that she showed in the Wadsworth game. Donna also played exceptionally well in other games when called upon.

BAGLEY—Right Forward.

Class of 1927.

Marian, our left-handed player, was always willing to play the game when given the opportunity. Bagley kept her opponents wondering just what she was intending to do, as she dribbled with her left hand, making it very difficult to guard her.

GREEN—Right Forward.

Class of 1929.

Rosemond, the only Sophomore on the squad, has developed into quite a forward. With two more years to play, she should become Medina High School's "star" player. "Rosie" played well in the Alumni game. She was especially good at long shots.

N. CARLTON—Center.

Class of 1927.

Although Norene was not called upon to play very much, she always was loyal to the squad. She proved her worth not only as a player but also as a loyal supporter, even though she was not put into all the games.

E. SMITH—Left Guard.

Class of 1927.

"Smitty," another faithful player who seldom got into a game, surely proved her worth in practice. We are sure that she would make a good player if she had another year. Emma made the minutes count when she was placed in the Alumni game.

P. SMITH—Left Forward.

Class of 1928.

Smith played her usual position of left forward again this year. Pauline seemed to be a little more successful this year than last, and she has one more year still in high school. In the Rittman game, in particular, she scored twenty-two of the twenty-four points.

TRACK.

Our track material is quite promising this year. In our track meet in May with the Junior High Girls and in the County Track Meet, we hope to prove that the girls can qualify in most events. These will consist of relays, dashes, hurdles, high jumping, running and standing broad jumps, hop, step and jump, discus, shot put, javelin, baseball and basketball throws.

Mr. Davenport: "I took my watch to the jewelers and what do you suppose was wrong with it?"

Miss Farnum: "What?"

Mr. Davenport: "It had a bedbug in it."

Miss Farnum: "How did it get in there?"

Mr. Davenport: "It got in between the ticks."

Quite Bald: "Don't cry, little boy, I'll play Indian with you."

Little Boy: "But you won't be any good. You're scalped already."

He-Man: "Why do editors always call themselves 'we'?"

Her-Man: "So the man who doesn't like the article will think there are too many to lick."

Close: "A horse just skidded around the corner."

Observer: "Horses can't skid."

Close: "But this one was tired."

Farmer Jones: "Say, Cy, I noticed a leak in the roof of your house. Why don't you fix it?"

Cy: "Because it has been raining lately."

Farmer Jones: "Why don't you fix it when it's not raining?"

Cy: "Wall, when it don't rain it don't leak."

W. Kern (singing): "Cross my heart and hope to die—"

Any Sensible Person: "I wish you would."

Mr. Bauer: "Where did you get that quaint old medal?"

D. Snyder: "Oh, that's an heirloom. My grandfather won it in an oratorical contest."

Mr. Bauer: "Indeed!" Sort of a hot airloom, isn't it?"

Mr. A.: "There was a river, a tomato, and a cabbage, had a race the other day. How do you think they came out?"

Mr. B.: "Don't know. How did they?"

Mr. A.: "The cabbage came in ahead. The river is still running, and the tomato couldn't ketchup!"

City Dude: "I saw a horse down the road with a broken leg, we generally kill a horse with a broken leg."

Farmer: "Ha! Ha! Wal out here we kill a horse with a shotgun!"

Son: "My father bought a horse the other day and the man be bought the horse from said he was a trick horse, and just before we left with him, he told him to limp and he has limped ever since.

A WILL

Being of Sound (?) and Disposing Mind!

TO MY WIFE:

1st I leave my house, with its first and second mortgages.
2nd My automobile with its six more easy payments.
3rd A player piano on which I owe $276.00.
4th And a $1000.00 Life Insurance policy, on which I have borrowd the limit

(Signed), I Don't Care.

Codicil: Should there be children, I sternly charge my wife with their proper care and adequate education.

I am sure we have all heard of weeds. Selfishness (of which the above is an example par excellence) is one of the most obnoxious "weeds" that grow in our garden of happiness.

My suggestion to you is to start as soon as possible to cultivate the habit of generosity and thrift, that you may protect your loved ones now or in the years to come.

One of the best ways to do this is by contracting with "THE OLD RELIABLE," the NEW YORK LIFE, to pay to you or your family at a definite time, to be used for education, travel, paying for a home, starting a business or to support your family after you are gone.

My best regards and congratulations are extended to every member of the Class of 1927.
